Langley Walk Returns Virtually for 2021

Langley, BC – The 59th Langley Walk is taking place virtually during the month of May in the Langleys. Residents are encouraged to explore their neighbourhood or local park trails on their own or with their household bubble, do laps around the yard, or jump on a treadmill to join in this long-standing community event.

Complete your 5 kilometres your way, which means you can walk 5km in one day, over two days or do 1km every day for five days. Once you have finished your walk, send an email to events@langleycity.ca with your name and address. We will mail a 2021 Langley Walk commemorative crest to the first 500 people, something to add to your collection or to inspire you to become a collector for years to come.

“Every year this is a fun opportunity to get active; all we ask is that you get up and go,” said Langley City Mayor Val van den Broek. “I look forward to seeing our citizens out there in their neighbourhoods or local parks.”

“I encourage everyone to be active and participate in this year’s Langley Walk,” said Township Mayor Jack Froese. “Walking is such a great way for people to improve their health and to get to know their local community.”

While we can’t walk together this year, you are encouraged to virtually share your experience on Facebook, Twitter or Instagram using the hashtag #LangleyWalk.
